
A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by cephran - 2008/06/28 10:15

This thread discusses the Content article: A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

I'm already signed up with Miko.

My plane is booked and I'm sharing digs with Psomas (I think) at the hotel.

I'm ready to fight for some freedom...

What's your story Capo? A little too busy with the wifey to stand up and be counted?

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by Marco - 2008/06/28 10:29

Mir Mokhsen looks like the kind of man I would risk my life with!

Yes please come to Boston and celebrate our Freedom and to help plan the future of our Freedom!

Looking forward to seeing as many of you TTPr's as possible. Much is at stake, as you all well know.

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by Brant - 2008/06/28 11:11

I can't be there, but can't wait to read all about it!

Jack, what kind of equipment do you use to get such outstandingly high quality photographs?

--Brant

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by jack - 2008/06/28 12:50

I have an Olympus SP-550 with 18x zoom digital camera. Nothing complicated.

=====

Hey Jack...

Posted by cephran - 2008/06/28 13:28

Jack,

I have made this suggestion before to Miko and I'll make it to you.

Have you considered providing a weblink for the evening speakers and ensuing Q&A's so that people who can't make the trip can still dial in via the web to see and hear what is being said.

We can even have them IM questions so they can participate in the Q&A.

It should be very simple to do and would cost next to nothing (except for your digital video cam, tripod and a laptop) and you could raise some additional capital from the TTP base who want to pay $25 (or whatever fee you decide) to be a part of the web cast.

You could use Instant Messenger as the vehicle for sending and receiving video and text information or one of the many other mediums available.

I'm sure Marco the Wizard could rig something up.

Hopefully, you'll consider it because it would give TTPers who can't make the events a chance to be a part of the action and it could also pay off from a business perspective.

Just a thought....

BTW, my consulting fee is 10% of the profits from the web cast. :laugh:

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by mwilHITE - 2008/06/28 16:29

Jack,

There really are some of us out here in 'flyover land' who can't afford to take off the time in the midst of our selling season (Yes, I'm a REALTOR.) to join you in Boston, although we would love to do so. I could however, join you via internet, especially after dark (Don't show houses after dark.) A modest fee would not be an unreasonable request for this service. Would love to sit in on your evening talks and even ask questions and make prescient (I hope.) comments. Voice would be great, but voice and video would be the berries. Try to keep it under 30 or 40 bucks, if you can.

Thanks for this forum; can't talk politics with anyone in my household without pissing them off, because I'm not remotely politically correct, nor do I care to be a wussified py. They may not like where I stand on various issues, but they damn sure know where it is.

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by ehoppe - 2008/06/28 16:45

I won't be able to make the trip, but I will be envious of those who can & will.
Dr Jack, Tell Mr. Mokhsen that if he were to move to the US, I would be proud to call him my countryman.

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by ella - 2008/06/28 19:19

It all depends on my job...it's a bit intense these days if it slacks off I may be able to come. :S

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by melliefluous - 2008/06/30 15:45

I was planning to come and had already made some arrangements, (I'm soooo sorry Mary Ellen), but then Ed got laid off TODAY. So - please, please, please listen to Chris and make it possible for us to "be there" at least for the meetings. I hate to whine, but, WAH!! I was really looking forward to the historical tours with Jack and being with all my favorite people again! I still hope you have a wonderful time and that the weather is perfect this time (instead of waiting for the last few hours to perk up!)

Mellie

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by cephran - 2008/06/30 16:20

Sorry to hear the bad news Mellie.

You'll be there in spirit and hopefully with the internet.

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by melliefluus - 2008/06/30 16:23

Thanks, cephran - We're kinda in shock. But we'll get through this. I'm really disappointed about the TTP 'Vous, but I love your idea! That would really be great!

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by cephran - 2008/06/30 16:29

I hope everything works out for you and Ed. We'll miss you guys but we also hope Ed is not out of work too long.

I'll add you guys to my prayers tonight.

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by Marco - 2008/06/30 16:30

Mellie, sorry to hear about the travails in your family. There are warm prayers for you and Ed, hopefully the horizon will brighten soon!

God bless!

Marco

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by melliefluus - 2008/06/30 18:00

Thanks, Mark and Chris. We really appreciate it. This is just another one of those detours that happen in life - I hope the view is fine! :)

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by Capo - 2008/06/30 18:23

Mel,

Sorry to hear your news. Here's praying that it's a setback that leads to a great opportunity for both of you.

Capo

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by psomas - 2008/07/01 14:41

@ Cephraan

Chris, yes I have you signed up with me at the Seaport Boston. See you at the Rendezvous. Thank you again Psomas.

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by cephran - 2008/07/01 17:35

Psomas,

If you want. I can mail you a check for my half of the room fees. I won't use the mini bar or the phone or spunk-ter vision for that matter. :laugh:

Let me know how you want to do it. You have my email

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by melliefluuous - 2008/07/02 17:44

Thanks! These kinds of things often do lead to better things. We're a little worried about the here and now, but feel sure the future will be exciting. :)

=====

Re:A PESHMERGA'S QUESTION

Posted by jsnape - 2008/07/02 18:27

I've never been laid off, but have quit with no plan, and been fired alot. Later looking back it was always the best thing that ever happened. But you have to get into creative survival mode.